Inspiring Nature, Inspired Techno : Biomimicry and Transport

In an open space, this fascinating and interactive exhibition will introduce you to the concept of biomimicry via the observation of artefacts and preserved specimens with the naked eye, through a magnifying glass or even through a microscope. It will be the perfect occasion to learn in a fun way how science was inspired by plants and animals to make transportation technologies greener and more efficient! Come and see naturalized and freeze-dried animals, skeletons, and model vehicles.

The experience is bonified by an artistic space where children are invited to invent and draw their own transportation innovations.
